Workshops and Faculty Development Programmes attended

Participant in the FDP on Emerging Trends in Teaching English Literature and Language, organized by the Academic Staff College, AUUP, held between 1-9 July 2013, in AUUP Campus, Noida. This FDP deepened my understanding of modern pedagogical approaches in English literature and language. I incorporated emerging trends such as blended learning and multimedia integration into my teaching practice, enhancing student engagement. Additionally, it reinforced my focus on keeping the curriculum aligned with current literary developments, ensuring that my courses reflect the latest academic research.

Resource Person in the FDP on Linguistics and English Literature organized by Amity Institute of English Studies and Research, held between 3- 8 December 2012 in AUUP Campus, Noida.

Participant of 3rd Linguistics Summer/Spring School in the Indian Mountains (LISSIM), organized by Formal Studies in the Syntax and Semantics of Indian Languages Society (FOSSIL) held between 13- 30 May 2008, in Kausani, Uttarakhand. The in-depth discussions and practical sessions at the summer school provided valuable insights into formal studies of Indian languages, enhancing my research capabilities in syntax and semantics, and enhancing my research capabilities in Key areas of Linguistic research. This experience helped me expand my network with leading scholars in the field.

Participant of the 2nd Linguistics Summer/Spring School in the Indian Mountains, organized by Formal Studies in the Syntax and Semantics of Indian Languages Society (FOSSIL), held between 2- 13 September 2007, in Dharamkot, Himachal Pradesh. Attending LISSIM 2 enriched my theoretical foundation in linguistics, particularly in the syntax and semantics of Indian languages. This experience also shaped my research focus, leading to more informed scholarly contributions.

Ongoing PhD supervision

Co-supervisor of Ms. Mehru Susan Abraham of Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi, on the “Topic Cross-linguistics influence in the Acquisition of Japanese Prosody: A study on Native Malayalam Speakers Learning Japanese.”
